LOCAL MANUFACTURE OF IRON.

DEPUTATION TO THE PREMIER.

A SYMPATHETIC ASSURANCE.

A deputation, representing the Eakbank Ironworkers' Association and the Iron Trades Council, accompanied about 30 members of Parliament, waited upon the Premier yesterday morning with a request that Mr. Sandford offer to supply all the ironwork requirements of the State for a period of five years at the lowest price to be held by the Government during ing the past five years be accepted. The dispute was introduced by Mr. John Hurley, M.L.A.

Mr. Carruthers, who was attended by Oliver, Chief Railway Commissioner, said that the members asked to stipulate individual rates for various qualities. Unfortunately, the only tender sent in—that of Mr. Sandford—gave no schedule of prices. Indeed, it was not a tender, but a simple letter in which occurred these words: "Mr. Carruthers, please ask the Government to supply the material and basis of iron and steel required by the Railway Commissioners at the average price for each class and quality that the Commissioners have paid for the past five years, and ation by their books." There was a surprise shown by the effect that the high quality of the work shall be maintained until the company is able to prove that it can produce such higher quality to its own and the Commissioners' satisfaction." That was altogether too ambiguous. He wanted to ascertain before the contract was let what the actual prices for the work were that would be paid for the responsibility of becoming involved in serious litigation on the point later on. (Hear, hear Mr. Wood: Are we to understand that if these people put in a tender based on the average prices for the past five years it will be given preference?) He was quite prepared to do so, but he was not prepared to do so in general, in the principle. Just as he wanted to finite prices quoted. As for the second point he had referred to—the stipulation as to the exclusion of higher qualities—there was nothing to say what those higher qualities were. Qualities from different manufacturers could differ considerably and it was easy to see that the Government would find that condition in the form quoted the Commissioners might at any time be placed in a very tight corner through the absence of supplies of certain qualities. Another clause stated, "We agree to supply iron and steel of a quality equal in every way to what has been supplied by the Government," which was definite. The basis of the qualities must be determined. The specifications provided for the determination of the various qualities according to certain tests which were recognised throughout the trade. The officer stipulated that the moment the company became able to produce the higher quality goods, the Committee should be notified. In the event of the contract, and the Commissioners purchased from that moment take all their supplies from it for the succeeding five years. Now, if Mr. Sandford was to have a free hand while working his experiments, the Commissioners should also have a free hand, and at liberty to enter into any other contract, as it would be impossible to require such qualities, an absence of which might be attended with much inconvenience and loss and danger to the travelling public. He wished it to be thoroughly understood that he was in no way in sympathy with the object of the deputation, and was not throwing obstacles in the way of the deputation. He was in the full sympathy of Mr. Sandford's tender. That gentleman, however, as Mr. Oliver assured him, had been supplied with the average prices paid by the Commissioners during the past five years, and it was expected that a straight-out price would be given. That would be a simple business-like proceeding, and would be in accordance with the form desired by the Government. Another stipulation was that a special railway rate should be conceded for the carriage of material. That, of course,

Mr. Griffiths: If Mr. Sandford is willing the prices previously fixed by the Commission, he would be to supply at those prices, is not that so as definite as if he had submitted a written schedule of prices?

Mr. Carruthers: We must proceed on business lines. If Mr. Sandford really means that he can easily insert the figure, in the tender, and if it is in the tender, it is a matter of business and not an amiable, am prepared to deal with him.

Mr. Hurley: Then it is simply a matter of detail. We know that Mr. Sandford is willing to do that, and as you have assented to the principle, the details can all be arranged between the parties.

Mr. Carruthers: I am not going to decide a matter involving hundreds of thousands of pounds in that off-hand way. When Mr. Sandford is prepared to do his part in a proper business-like way, I will do mine. He will have an opportunity of consulting with my officers in regard to the matter whenever he phones.

The deputation, having thanked the Premier for his sympathetic reply, withdrew.

Mr. Sandford subsequently informed a "Herald" representative that he had anticipated a reply from the Premier on the subject of the riotous display he had raised.

MUDGE ELECTION PETITION.

OPENING OF THE INQUIRY.

The Elections and Qualifications Committee met yesterday morning at Parliament House and commenced an inquiry into the petition of Mr. John Haynes against the return of Mr. Edwin Richards for the electorate of Mudgee. Mr. Holman, M.L.A., presided. The other members present were Messrs. Waddell, Levy, Macdonell, Young, Dacey, Oakes, Brinsley Hall, and Morton.

Mr. John Davidson, instructed by

The grounds of the petition were, among others, that the said Edwin Richards was not qualified to be elected as a member of the Legislative Assembly not being legally the holder of an elector's right; that his nomination was not in accordance with the requirements of the Parliamentary Electorates and Elections Act; that more than 14 persons were enrolled as electors in the electoral district of which said district voted at the election, and double voting was exercised to the extent of more should have been counted for the nettometer; but only one polling place was gazetted for the Mullagud and the voters were crowded into the polling place in three different polling places in that town, in consequence of which, and in consequence of inadequate arrangements for polling, more than 14 electors were prevented from voting; that the deputy returning officer at Cullenbong, one of the polling places, permitted the voters to be seated at the table in the hall engaged in voting, to remain in the hall and to play cards, to drink and to eat, and some of such voters indulged in drinking and card-playing in the booth during the taking of the vote.

Certain formal evidence was tendered, and the committee adjourned until Tuesday next, at 11 a.m.

RHEUMATISM BANISHED.

ZAM-DUK SUCCESSFUL WHERE MANY TREATMENTS FAIL.

"For about seven years," says Mrs. Mary Aytos, of 45 Newman-street, Newtown, Sydney, "I have suffered with Rheumatism all over my body, being especially severe in my ankles and knees, and had great difficulty in getting about. In fact, at times I have been laid up altogether, and unable to attend to my household duties. As you may believe,

"My only professed cures for Rheumatism, both internal and external, but could get no relief whatever," said a lady, "I was afflicted with a bad attack, when I had recourse to the Zamb-Bud advertised as a cure for my complaint, and I straightway sent for a pot, and rubbing the balm well into the parts affected. In a short time I felt great relief, and thus encouraged, I persevered with the treatment, until I was cured. I was thoroughly cured, and I am now able to do all my household work. It included—a duty I was household work, washing, ironing, and mending, and I was enabled to do some considerable time." Zamb-Bud is a powerful healer, is a speedy cure for Piles, Eczema, Boils, Running Sores, Sore Legs, Ringworms, Barcoo, etc. As an Embrocation for Strained and the tendons, Zam-Buk, rubbed well into the parts affected is unequalled. As a Household Balm for Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Pimples, Blackheads, Prickly Heat, Rash, and Bites of Insects, Zam-Buk is invaluable. From all medicine vendors, 1s 6d, or 3s 6d family size (containing nearly four times the quantity), or from Zam-Buk Co., Pitt-street, Sydney. Send a penny stamp for FREE SAMPLE.
